Dear

FREEDOM OF INFORMATION REQUEST

Request No: 43082-25

Subject: NIAS Fleet

Date Received: 25/07/2025

Thank you for your request for information received on 25th July 2025 which was dealt with under the terms of the Freedom of Information Act 2000.

NIAS would fully apologise for the delay in responding to this request and thank you for your patience at this time.

Northern Ireland Ambulance Service (NIAS) Health and Social Care Trust has now completed its search for the information you requested and that is detailed below.

FOI QUESTION(S)	ANSWER(S)
I am writing to you to request information regarding your services fleet. Can you provide me with a full and update fleet list, including vehicle make/model, callsign, use and base location.	Please see attached Fleet List. Call signs are not released as per Section 24 Exemption* see below.
If unable to give base location, may I ask how many emergency ambulances and RRVs are based at Coleraine ambulance station.	16

NIAS are unable to provide the Callsign and would apply the following exemption. This is a qualified exemption and therefore requires the undertaking of a Public Interest Test.

 Exemption: The Public Interest Test

In determining whether or not the public interest in withholding information outweighs the public interest disclosing information, NIAS considered the factors favouring disclosure and the factors against disclosure. The application of the Public Interest Test is set out below.

Harm in providing the Information Held

To provide the individual call signs for specific vehicles could compromise national security. It may potentially interfere with emergency services that is provided to patients and service users. Knowing call signs, registration numbers and associated information for specific vehicles may allow individuals to access information which could lead to major disruption and therefore interfere with the smooth running of the vital service that NIAS provide.

Balancing Test

A disclosure under the Freedom of Information Act is a disclosure to the world at large, therefore information that is disclosed must be suitable to be disclosed to anyone. When considering whether disclosure is appropriate, we must consider the strongest reason for disclosure against the strongest reasons for non-disclosure.

In this case, whilst the factors favouring disclosure are important in that it would adhere to the basic principle of being open and transparent, when weighed against the risk of disclosure undermining our ability to protect the public and respond effectively to emergencies, then non-disclosure takes precedence.

The Information Commissioners Office confirm that they recognise that terrorists can be highly motivated and may go to great lengths to gather intelligence. This means there may be grounds for withholding seemingly harmless information on the basis that it may assist terrorists when pieced together with other information they may obtain.

I hope the above fully assists you.

Please note that, under the Re-use of Public Sector Information Regulations, if you wish to publish or otherwise use this information besides for your own means, you will need to seek our permission to do so.
